

CONTENTS

Introduction	1
--------------	---

PART ONE

Looking Upstream

1 The Storm Surge in Digital Education and Privatization	11
2 Faulty Assumptions How Market Models of Accountability Undercut the Potential of Digital Education	41

PART TWO

Looking Downstream

3 The Promises and Challenges of Instructor-Driven Digital Courses	69
4 Commercial Spaces and Opportunities to Learn in a Digital School	93
5 Policy Context and Commercial Decisions in Digital Tutoring	117

PART THREE

Shifting the Current

6	Changing the Dialogue	145
	Tools for Building Transparency and Accountability in Digital Education for Students in Low-Income Settings
7	Equal Scrutiny	175
	Digital Education and the Struggle for Equity, Quality, and Accountability
	Appendix	189
	Research Notes on the Digital Education Cases
	Notes	197
	Acknowledgments	213
	About the Authors	215
	Index	217